from the bodies rotting by the wayside in famine fiction synge s sodden corpses and joyce s dead to nuala n̄ dhomhnaill s talking corpses and the unburied and dissected remains of celtic tiger fiction the figure of the corpse is ubiquitous in irish writing this collection examines the irish corpse as a conceptually rich centrepoint with multiple differently signifying implications across this historical period as expressed in different social political and creative contexts taking irish literature s obsession with death as its starting point the corpse in modern irish literature demonstrates the wide ranging implications of this fixation extending it through the contexts of the tragedies of the irish past and the emergence of new identities in the wake of colonial modernity in their range of authors and genres from the eighteenth to the twenty first century the chapters bring into focus patterns of change and continuity and extend current understanding of the gothic mode the national tale the irish modernist novel irish language poetry the elegiac mode comic and tragic revivalist writings and the generic complexity of autofiction and contemporary fiction in so doing the corpse in modern irish literature makes a significant intervention in irish studies gothic studies death studies and medical and health humanities
